

Ferrellgas Collecting Winter Clothing Items for Those in Need

December 19, 2018

LIBERTY, Miss., Dec. 19, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- As a company that serves the propane needs of homes, businesses, and farms across the country, Ferrellgas knows a thing or two about keeping America warm. This year Ferrellgas is once again asking its customers—and all the members of the thousands of communities it serves—to help spread even more warmth throughout the area this holiday season.

Now through January 12, hundreds of Ferrellgas offices across the country are collecting new and gently used coats, hats, scarves, and gloves and putting them in the hands of the less fortunate members of local communities. Donations can be given to Ferrellgas drivers or brought to the Ferrellgas offices throughout the country (more information at <https://www.ferrellgas.com/locations/>). At the end of the coat drive, Ferrellgas will donate items collected to various local charities.

"Dropping off that coat you've had in the back of your closet or a new pair of mittens may seem like a small thing to do, but it can have a big impact in the lives of far too many people here in the United States," said James E. Ferrell, Interim Chief Executive Officer and President. "For some families, a warm coat is a luxury that cannot be taken for granted, and we are grateful for all the donations that will be collected and provided to them."

Local residents do not have to be Ferrellgas customers to participate in the donation drive. More information about the project can be found at www.ferrellgas.com/share-the-warmth.
